Re: Removal of the bible from Academy School District 20

Dear Superintendent Gregory:

I am writing on behalf of the Freedom From Religion Foundation (FFRF) to support a District parent who has requested that the bible be removed from school libraries based on the inappropriate content that it contains. FFRF is a national nonprofit organization with more than 40,000 members across the country, including more than 1,300 members and two local chapters in Colorado. Our purposes are to protect the constitutional principle of separation between state and church, and to educate the public on matters relating to nontheism.

A concerned District parent has reported that the District has recently started banning books from its libraries based on purported inappropriate sexual and violent content. Our complainant reports that a group called “Advocates for D20 Kids” requested that the District ban certain books from its libraries based on their sexual and/or violent content and the District immediately removed these books from its school libraries. Our complainant has requested that the District remove the bible based on the same criteria that the District has used to ban other books with “inappropriate” content.

We write to request that the District either ban the bible based on the criteria it has used to ban other books with similar sexual and violent content, or cease banning books and return the banned books to school shelves. The District cannot ban books because it disagrees with the viewpoint expressed while allowing other inappropriate books because it supports their viewpoint.

In the bible, rape is not only described, but the victims are forced to marry their rapists.<sup>1</sup> One bible story tells of a prostitute who “lusted after her lovers, whose genitals were like those of donkeys and whose emission was like that of horses,” who “longed for the lewdness of your youth, when . . . [her] bosom was caressed and your young breasts fondled.”<sup>2</sup> This same story speaks about sex toys: you “took the fine jewelry I gave you, the jewelry made of my gold and silver, and you made for yourself male idols and engaged in prostitution with them.”<sup>3</sup> Another book of the bible has a character who prays, “may her breasts satisfy you always, may you ever be intoxicated with her love.”<sup>4</sup> In yet another bible story, a future husband purchases a wife by killing 200 of her fathers’ enemies, mutilating their corpses, and bringing back their foreskins as a dowry.<sup>5</sup> Another sordid and preposterous story that defames incest victims recounts the exploits of two daughters who, having just witnessed a genocide and the murder of their mother by a pyromaniacal god, supposedly got their father drunk and seduced him in order to bear his children.<sup>6</sup> Yet another book describes sperm, intercourse, menstruation, homosexuality, bestiality, adultery and whores.<sup>7</sup> Another depicts a holy man impaling a woman through her belly and describes in loving detail how to steal and rape virgins as war booty.<sup>8</sup> Yet another tale tells how a woman has her hand cut off for touching a man’s penis.<sup>9</sup> In other passages, women’s skirts are lifted over their face so their nakedness and shame can be exposed to all.<sup>10</sup> Another tale describes a man touching a woman’s “hole of the door” and how her “bowels were moved for him.”<sup>11</sup>

These and many more unpalatable and sexually explicit stories are found in the various books of the bible. Our educational association has published a brochure, An X-Rated Book: Sex & Obscenity In the Bible, which exposes nearly 150 bible verses displaying a “pornographic view of sex and women, lewdness, depravity and sexual violence often ordered or countenanced by the biblical deity.” It can be read for free on our website.<sup>12</sup>

FFRF Co-President Dan Barker has written an entire book on the evils of the bible, GOD: The Most Unpleasant Character in All Fiction. Chapters document “divinely” ordered genocide, infanticide and filicide, among many other atrocities, as well as the biblical deity’s racism, sexism, slavemongering and sadomasochism. An interactive companion website details all of this and more.<sup>13</sup> These verses are one reason why FFRF makes available bible warning labels to place on hotel bibles saying, “Warning: Literal belief in this book may endanger your health and life.”<sup>14</sup>

The bible historically is doubtless the single-most weaponized piece of writing on the planet, responsible for unjust wars, genocide, anti-semitism, violent extremism, subjugation of women and pervasive racism. Throughout the Crusades, the Inquisition, the witch hunts, chattel slavery, the Holocaust, and the history of homophobia, the bible looms large. As Born Again Skeptic’s Guide to the Bible<sup>15</sup> author Ruth Hurmence Green eloquently put it, “There was a time when religion ruled the world. It is known as the Dark Ages.”

It is important to note that removal of the bible would not constitute hostility toward Christianity or religion. The District must hold religious texts to the same standards it holds all other library books, review them, and, if they contain the same inappropriate content as the bible, must also remove them under the District's standards. Removing the bible for its obscenity or graphic sexual content based on neutral criteria is not religious discrimination.

FFRF advocates, above all, for freedom of thought. We oppose the concept of banning books from school libraries. We believe that there is no true freedom of thought, conscience or even religion, unless our government and its public schools are free from religion and its control over thought. We are deeply familiar with the haunting history of censorship—from the Catholic Church's Index Librorum Prohibitorum, to the Comstock laws, to the Nazi book burnings, the attacks on authors such as Charles Darwin and Salman Rushdie, and the murders of Bangladeshi bloggers such as Avijit Roy. Heinrich Heine famously observed, "Where they burn books, they will end in burning human beings." History never looks kindly on book censors and burners.

The best solution is to leave a diversity of viewpoints in school libraries, and trust students to explore complex topics themselves by not banning books from school libraries. However, so long as the District is choosing to remove books containing sexual content, the bible may not be given special treatment and must be removed too.

The "inappropriate" sections of the majority of books targeted by groups like "Advocates for D20 Kids" are typically minor parts of books that have literary value. Reading takes time, and understanding books critically takes even more thought. Those who propose book bans target gullible audiences with selective material. They fear free inquiry and independence of thought. Much of the book banning impetus is manufactured, with pre-made lists of books and quotes circulated by self-righteous grandstanders who are hostile to critical thinking. In short, the current wave of book banning is not about protecting children, it is about discouraging thought.

We are disturbed that the District has chosen to start removing books from school libraries based on content taken out of context. Because the District has established a standard for inappropriate content that clearly encompasses the sexually explicit materials contained in the bible, so long as you plan to ban other books, and the books you have already banned remain unavailable, you must be even-handed about your purge and immediately remove the bible as well. If you find that the vast amount of sexually explicit material in the bible does not warrant its removal from district schools, then this same lower standard must be applied to all books with similar content. Please respond in writing with how the District plans to resolve this issue so that we may inform our complainant.

Sincerely,

Christopher Line
